Courtesy listings are supplied by AWF when a dog needs help finding a new home. We make every effort to help the dogs in our care, as well as other dogs who are deserving of a new life and a second chance.

BREED DISCLOSURE:
Due to the fact that most of our adoptable pets are strays, we cannot guarantee their breed. We list the pet's breed as the one that best matches the physical appearance, temperament, and personality of the animal. The pet may also be listed as a mix when it's actually a purebred.

Jones County does not have an animal shelter, so AWF dogs are held at a local vet office. Jones County does allow stray animals to be held for 7 days to either be claimed or to find a new home. At the end of the 7 days, the animal CAN be put down if we do not find the animal a new home. So far, no animal has been put down unnecessarily in Jones County since AWF was formed. The Animal Welfare Foundation wants to find the dogs in our care forever homes where they can bond with a family immediately and permanently.
